Aadhaar authentication must for Tatkal booking

From July 1, only users who have authenticated their IRCTC account with Aadhaar will be able to book Tatkal tickets through its website and app. To make the process more fool-proof, the use of OTP for Aadhaar authentication will be introduced from July 15, says a press release from the Railways. The new norms have been notified to check malpractices by agents and ensure that only genuine passengers benefit from the Tatkal scheme. The ministry has urged people to ensure Aadhaar linkage with their IRCTC user profiles to avoid inconvenience. Even to buy paper tickets at the railway counters from July 15, passengers or their representatives will have to provide a mobile number on which an OTP will be sent for verification purposes. Provisions have also been made to ensure that by using other software no one can book tickets faster than genuine users. Authorised ticketing agents will not be permitted to book opening-day Tatkal tickets during the first 30 minutes of the booking window. For AC classes, this restriction will apply from 10a.m to 10.30a.m, and for non AC classes, from 11a.m to 11:30a.m.

World Environment Day 2025 was observed at CSI Ewart Matric Hr. Sec. School, Anna Nagar West Extn on June 5. The theme "Beat plastic pollution" was brought out effectively by students of all classes taking the oath. They also participated in a drawing and painting competition. Students were taken out on a rally on the streets around the school as they carried banners and placards to emphasize the theme.

Mogappair gets official debris dumping yard

By N Rathi Chithra

In a step toward managing construction and demolition waste more effectively, the Greater Chennai Corporation has earmarked an official debris dumping yard on Kavimani Salai in Mogappair. A blue board at the site marks it clearly as a designated space for disposing of construction material and rubble — part of the city's efforts to streamline waste management in growing neighbourhoods.

However, despite this move, residents say that illegal dumping continues unabated on the banks of the Cooum near Nolambur and the Rail Nagar stretch, raising concerns over environmental damage and civic neglect.

The site on Kavimani Salai is located on a vacant plot, with a prominent signboard installed by Zone 7 of the Corporation. Yet, garbage and palm fronds are scattered around the area, indicating that unsegregated waste is also being thrown here. "At least this is a step in the right direction," said Sekar, a building contractor in the area. "We used to struggle with where to dispose of construction waste. Now there is a dedicated spot, which reduces conflicts with residents," he said.

However, civic activists caution that simply designating a space is not enough. "There has to be strict enforcement and regular clearing," said Shobhana Muthuramalingam, a member of a residents' forum in Mogappair West. "Otherwise, even this place will become an unregulated dump," she apprehended.

More troubling is the continued dumping on ecologically sensitive areas. Residents of Nolambur say the Cooum banks, already struggling with plastic waste, are now seeing mounds of concrete debris and tiles being dumped overnight. "We see lorries offloading materials on the riverbank at odd hours," claimed Gokulan, a cyclist and morning walker in the Rail Nagar area. "It's heart-breaking — the river is dying slowly, and this only adds to its misery."

While the Corporation has warned of fines for illegal dumping, enforcement remains weak. "Unless there's CCTV surveillance or surprise inspections, people will continue to dump wherever it's convenient for them," said a junior official in the Solid Waste Management department, requesting anonymity.

The official yard on Kavimani Salai is expected to be part of a larger plan by the Corporation to identify legal dumping points across Chennai, as construction booms in suburbs and new housing layouts.

Urban planners suggest that mobile debris collection units or a door-to-door service might help curb the problem. "You can't expect everyone to bring rubble to one fixed point unless you make it easy," said Chandran, an architect based in Anna Nagar. "There has to be both infrastructure and incentive," he added.

Kevin shines

Kevin Alex (class XII) from Velammal Vidyalaya West won gold in the 400m and bronze in the 200m (under-16 boys) at the 1st Tamil Nadu Zone 2 Athletic Championship held at Jawaharlal Nehru Stadium.

Velammal's Sruthi finishes second runner-up in SS

SARA SRUTHI, a talented and vibrant student of Velammal Matriculation School, has brought immense pride to the institution by clinching the title of second runner-up in a highly acclaimed national television singing competition.

With her soulful voice and captivating stage presence, Sara Sruthi mesmerized audiences and judges alike, standing out among thousands of contestants from across the country. Her consistent performances and musical cal brilliance throughout the show earned her a place in the top three, showcasing not only her dedication and hard work but also the musical grooming and encouragement received from her school.

The management, staff, and students of Velammal Matric School expressed their heartfelt congratulations and pride. "Sara has set a shining example for her peers. Her success is a testament to the school's commitment to nurturing talent beyond academics," said the Principal.

Anna Nagar gets India's first AC lounge for gig workers

By Our Correspondent

In a pioneering move to support the city's gig workforce, the Greater Chennai Corporation has unveiled India's first air-conditioned lounge exclusively for gig workers in Anna Nagar. This landmark initiative, inaugurated via video conferencing by Tamil Nadu Deputy Chief Minister Udhayanidhi Stalin, marks a significant step in safeguarding those working under extreme weather conditions.

Earlier the Mogappair Mail had reported that Anna Nagar was among the chosen locations for setting up the innovative project.

The facility is a modern, climate-controlled rest centre with amenities including CCTV surveillance, toilets, drinking water, mobile charging points, and round-the-clock security. Developed by the Greater Chennai Corporation, the lounge is designed to offer much-needed relief to platform-based workers such as food delivery agents, who often endure scorching sun and long hours outdoors.

The lounge is strategically located near busy zones in Anna Nagar, a hub for delivery and commuting services. It has quickly drawn appreciation from gig workers who see the facility as a much-needed oasis in their grueling day.

"I start work by 7 am and don't return home until late at night. There are no proper places for us to rest or even use a clean toilet," said R. Shankar, a 26-year-old food delivery agent. "Today, I sat in a clean, air-conditioned room for ten minutes and felt human again. This is a big change."

Another delivery partner, Meena Kumari, echoed this view. "I have been working for three years on the roads, in sun and rain. For women like me, this facility is a blessing. We need more of these across the city."

The initiative is part of the broader urban welfare programs spearheaded by the government, especially in Chennai, which has been experiencing extreme temperatures in recent years. Public health experts and labour rights activists have long advocated such interventions, citing the physical toll of heat on gig workers.

"This lounge represents both dignity and foresight," said a Greater Chennai Corporation official. "Gig workers are the backbone of modern urban life. They deserve not just our appreciation, but infrastructure that supports their health and well-being."

The Tamil Nadu government has announced plans to extend such cooling centres to other parts of the city and to include construction labourers under similar welfare measures. If the Anna Nagar model proves successful, it could well become a national template for urban labour-friendly infrastructure.

Dr. A.V.Arun gets Guinness Record for largest collection of cameras

The collection of cameras started way back in 1997 and Dr A.V Arun's passion for it is getting stronger by the day. He has so far collected over 5700 cameras from all over the world. In 2017 he opened the largest camera museum in Asia in terms of number of cameras. Over the years, Dr.Arun has been consistently collecting cameras. Everytime he travelled abroad for his lectures in colleges and dental societies, he would keep one day specifically to meet camera collectors or visit the local flea markets and get some old cameras, that may not be available in India.

The oldest camera in his collection is a 1870 manufactured British wooden bellows, which was made just a few years after the first camera production started. The largest camera is six feet long and 5 feet tall. This camera was manufactured in 1895.

The camera collection also has a lot of first model cameras of various companies including Canon, Leica etc. The special attraction are the world War 11 cameras which were used by the US, UK and German Airforce. Each one is very large and unique. Another very interesting one is a periscope camera which was used by the Americans in their war in Vietnam.

The museum also has Vintage spy cameras, which used film to take pics with no electronic or film component.

The camera museum was inaugurated in 2017 by popular cinematographer Mr.P.C.Sriram and is today the largest camera museum in the world.

Lot of options make Alcaraz a special player

By R Srinivasa Raghavan

ROGER Federer brought joy to the tennis court with his sizzling strokes for two decades. In a somewhat similar way, the emergence of Carlos Alcaraz Garifa on the ATP Tour in 2020 has been refreshing. The Spaniard clawed back from a hopeless position (three match points down in fourth set) to outlast Jannik Sinner and win his second French Open title in Paris. It was an epic battle lasting five hours and 29 minutes. The Roland Garros crowd enjoyed the pulsating five-set match to a T. It was the best Slam final in recent times. Tennis experts were flabbergasted the way Alcaraz turned the match in his favour after being one point away from losing the match.

Alcaraz got into tennis at a young age (four), thanks to his father Carlos Alcaraz Gonzalez, who himself was a tennis coach. After winning a lot of Challenger titles, the Spaniard made his ATP Tour debut at the Rio Open in 2020, winning his first round match before bowing out in the next round.

Alcaraz's big breakthrough came in 2021, when he won his first Tour title in Croatia. He followed it up by pulling off an upset victory over world No.3 Stefanos Tsitsipas in the third round of the US Open. He ended the year on a high note, triumphing in the Next Gen ATP Finals. After making tremendous progress in 2021, Alcaraz bagged his maiden Grand Slam title in 2022,

TENNIS ROUND-UP

FACTBOX

Name: Carlos Alcaraz
Country: Spain
Age: 22
Ranking: World No.2
Peak Ranking: World No.1 in 2022

FANTASTIC FIVE

2022: Winning US Open
2023: Winning Wimbledon
2024: Winning French Open, Winning Wimbledon
2025: Winning French Open

winning the US Open, which included a marathon five-set win over Sinner in their last-eight match. Importantly, he showed enormous mental strength, winning three straight five-set matches in New York. This victory propelled him to become the youngest-ever world No.1 on the Tour (19 years and 214 days).

The retirement of Federer and Nadal, besides Novak Djokovic not getting any younger (at 38) created a doubt whether the younger generation can continue their rich legacy. Filling the big three shoes' (66 Slam titles) is a difficult task without a doubt. However, Alcaraz (five Slam titles) and Sinner (three Slam titles) have raised the level of tennis with their big serves, booming groundstrokes and incredible fighting spirit. Alcaraz-Sinner rivalry promises a riveting spectacle, besides keeping the game alive.

Winning his first Wimbledon title in 2023, beating back the challenge of seven-time Wimbledon champion Djokovic in a nerve-racking final, was one of the memorable moments in his career.

Alcaraz has had his low moments, going down to Botic van de Zandschulp in the second round of 2024 US Open. Like all great champions, Alcaraz learns his lesson and bounces back strongly.

The best quality about Alcaraz's game is his ability to bring joy to the game. His exhilarating strokes brings crowd to the sport. Being one of the best movers on the court, the 22-year-old hits winners from defensive positions, which leaves even the tennis experts in awe! He is made the drop shot trendy even if it's doesn't work in his favour always. Having a lot of options in his arsenal is what makes him a special player. If Alcaraz stays injury-free, he will win Slams in double digits.

Tambaram

TO facilitate platform upgrading works at Chennai Egmore as part of the railway station redevelopment plan, Southern Railway on Thursday announced that Chennai Egmore - Madurai Tejas Express, Kollam Express and a few other trains will depart/ terminate from Tambaram. The Charminar Express bound to Hyderabad will run from Chennai Beach instead of Tambaram. The revised terminal points for these trains will be in force from June 20 to August 18.

An official note said Chennai Egmore - Kollam Express, Chennai Egmore - Madurai Tejas Express, Chennai Egmore - Mannargudi

Mannai Express, Chennai Egmore - Tiruchendur Express and Chennai Egmore - Guruvayur Express will originate and terminate at Tambaram. Similarly, Tambaram - Hyderabad Charminar daily Express will originate and terminate from Chennai Beach between June 20 and August 18, says a press release.

GCC vending zone on Park Road raises hopes and concerns

By N Rathi Chithra

A vending zone has been set up by the Greater Chennai Corporation along Park Road in Anna Nagar Western Extension, bringing a mix of relief and concern to residents and road users. Marked as an official 60-metre vending stretch, the zone houses a few makeshift tea stalls and food vendors — but notably, the kiosks are located directly on the pedestrian pavement.

While the Corporation's move is being appreciated for regulating informal vending and creating designated spaces, several citizens have raised questions about the location, which forces pedestrians onto the road.

"This is an important tea point for us," said Murugan, an autorickshaw driver sipping tea with colleagues at one of the stalls.

But not everyone shares his enthusiasm. Rajalakshmi, a 58-year-old resident of the area who walks daily along this stretch, expressed her frustration: "The sign says it's a vending zone, but it's still on the footpath! I now have to walk on the road with vehicles rushing past. This is not safe, especially for children and seniors."

A green board installed by the Corporation clearly marks the spot as a vending zone and states its 60-metre extent. The food carts and makeshift stalls have been set up using basic materials like tarpaulin and iron rods. The stalls draw a steady stream of customers including gig workers, cyclists, and office-goers, particularly during morning and evening hours.

However, social activists and urban planners caution that placing such zones on footpaths can be counterproductive. "If the vending zone encroaches on pedestrian space, it defeats the purpose of inclusive urban planning," said Revathi Seshadri, an urban researcher. "We need to find ways to accommodate both — vendors and walkers — without pitting one against the other." The Corporation has recently launched initiatives across Chennai to identify and regularise informal vendors. Many of these efforts, including the Anna Nagar vending zone, are intended to provide economic stability to small-scale sellers while maintaining civic order.

Still, a long-term solution may involve redesigning streetscapes. "A vending bay along the side of the road, with a buffer for pedestrians, would be ideal," suggested local civic volunteer Varun Chandran.
