TNEB launches chatbot for power complaints

THE Tamil Nadu Electricity Board (TNEB) has introduced a 24x7 WhatsApp chatbot to enable consumers to register complaints related to electricity services and ensure they are promptly forwarded to the concerned officials for redressal.

The new facility, named TNEB Chatbot, has been developed as part of the board's efforts to make it easier for consumers to report complaints. To access the service, consumers have to send "HI" to 94987 94987 through WhatsApp. The chatbot will then obtain the details of the complaint using the consumer's mobile number or service connection number and forward it to the concerned official for immediate action.

The facility is intended to enable faster registration and processing of complaints and help ensure that grievances are addressed within the stipulated time. The board said it would continue to take measures to resolve consumer grievances promptly and improve electricity services.

Man cheated after befriending stranger at family function

By N Rath Chithra

A 36-year-old resident of Anna Nagar East, who befriended a man at a family function and later allowed him to stay at his house, allegedly ended up losing 25 sovereigns of gold jewellery and ₹14 lakh in cash.

The Anna Nagar police have arrested the accused and recovered the stolen valuables and cash.

The arrested man was identified as Tharun, 26, of KCB Colony in Tiruvottiyur. Police said he had allegedly befriended the victim, Satheesh Kumar, around three months ago at a relative's function.

Satheesh Kumar, who lives separately from his wife and son due to differences with his wife, runs two businesses. According to police, Tharun introduced himself as a businessman from Hyderabad and told Satheesh Kumar that he stayed in star hotels whenever he visited Chennai on business.

Trusting his acquaintance, Satheesh Kumar agreed. However, instead of staying for two days, Tharun remained at the house for around 10 days, police said.

Satheesh Kumar later became suspicious of his activities and checked the gold jewellery and cash kept inside a bureau. He was shocked to find that the valuables were missing. He subsequently lodged a complaint with the crime wing of the Anna Nagar police.

A police team led by the Crime Wing Inspector secured Tharun and questioned him. During the investigation, police allegedly found that he had made duplicate keys for the bureau and locker and gradually removed the jewellery and cash while staying at the house.

Police said the stolen jewellery was subsequently sold and the money was allegedly used to repay debts and meet lavish expenses.

The police arrested Tharun and recovered 25 sovereigns of gold jewellery and ₹14 lakh in cash from him. Police also found that a criminal case had earlier been registered against him in the Tambaram Forest Range.

The incident has raised concerns about the risks of allowing people who are newly acquainted at social gatherings or functions into one's home.

"We should be extremely careful about trusting strangers whom we meet at parties, functions or other socialising venues. A friendly conversation or an impressive introduction does not mean we know the person's background," said a resident of Anna Nagar.

"People often let their guard down because the person was introduced at a gathering involving relatives or acquaintances. But that alone should not be treated as a guarantee of someone's character or intentions," another resident said.

Police advised residents to exercise caution before sharing personal information, financial details or access to their homes with people they have only recently met.

Learning Beyond the Classroom

LITTLE Ella School, believes that some of the most meaningful learning happens when children step beyond the classroom and experience the world around them.

As part of their experiential learning programme, young learners embarked on an exciting educational field trip to a supermarket, turning an everyday shopping experience into a wonderful opportunity for exploration and discovery.

tion and discovery.

The children explored the colourful world of fruits, vegetables, groceries, packaged foods, household essentials and everyday products.

The highlight of the visit was the billing experience. The children were allowed to select their items, approach the billing counter, tender exact cash and receive the bill. The excitement on their faces made the experience even more special. From exploring new products to observing the billing process, every moment sparked curiosity, conversation and joyful learning.

At Little Ella, they strive to create opportunities where children explore, discover, experience and learn with joy — because every little experience can become a big learning moment.

No duty on Saturdays at 100 SROs from Nov 1

THE State Registration Department will discontinue Saturday duty at 100 sub-registrar (SR) offices from Nov. 1, as the government expands presence-less and paperless registration and seeks to rationalise the workload of its offices. In the GO dated October 1, the Commercial Taxes and Registration Department said the change was being implemented in view of the reduction in workload arising from the department's reforms. Under the arrangement, the 100 identified SR offices will function only on weekdays. Registration officials at these offices will no longer be required to attend duty on Saturdays, enabling them to use the day for other official work. The move is part of reforms to make document registration faster and less dependent on physical visits to government offices.

It's worse when it rains!!

THE feeder road opposite to Velammal Hall in Mogappair west leading to Maduravoyal is being closed due to Storm water drain works for more than a fortnight. This stretch is in the news almost every other day for the wrong reasons. Commuters allege that encroachments on roads, footpaths and overall water stagnation on the subway, even for a slight downpour, makes things difficult. The situation becomes particularly chaotic during peak hours when school buses, office-goers, students and private transport converge on this congested stretch. This road incidentally happens to be the only connectivity to Mel Ayanambakkam, that houses many schools. It's high time the authorities concerned find a permanent solution to this problem.

Free Computer Classes

3 Imaging Innovations: One Goal

MGM Healthcare Malar, Adyar is advancing precision imaging through ultra-low-dose chest CT, low-dose CT coronary angiography, and deep-learning/AI-powered image reconstruction and quantitative analysis.

These innovations support earlier and more accurate detection of lung and heart diseases while reducing radiation and contrast exposure. The hospital has screened 260 patients through its ultra-low-dose chest CT programme, identifying 54 cancers, while 133 coronary CT examinations were performed over 10 days using approximately 15 mL of contrast per examination. By combining deep learning, advanced imaging protocols, and radiological expertise, MGM Healthcare Malar aims to make diagnosis earlier, safer, more precise, and more patient-centric.

The goal is to deliver imaging that is earlier, safer, more precise, and more clinically useful, helping to make better-informed decisions.

THE presence of a few stray dogs inside the Mangal Eri Park in Mogappair has become a matter of concern for some regular visitors, particularly parents who bring their children to the Greater Chennai Corporation-maintained park.

The park, which is used by hundreds of residents every day, is a popular destination for morning and evening walkers. Children also regularly visit the park to play. However, the presence of stray dogs within the premises has left some parents cautious, even though no untoward incident involving the animals has been reported so far.

Residents said the dogs are often seen resting near the walls and other relatively quiet portions of the park. While they have not been reported to have attacked or chased visitors, some parents said their children feel uncomfortable when they encounter the animals.

"We bring our children here to play and spend some time outdoors. A few of them are scared when they see the dogs inside the park. Nothing has happened so far, but as parents, we naturally remain cautious," said a mother who regularly visits the park.

Another parent said the issue should ideally be addressed before there is an incident. "We do not want to wait for something to happen before action is taken. The park is primarily meant for public recreation, and children should be able to use it without fear. The dogs could perhaps be shifted to a safer location outside the play areas," she said.

However, dog lovers and some other regular visitors have a different view. They said the presence of the dogs by itself should not be considered a problem, particularly since there have been no reports of aggression or attacks.

"These dogs are not harming anyone. They generally lie quietly and do not trouble walkers. There is no reason to remove them simply because some people are uncomfortable seeing them," said a resident who feeds stray dogs in the neighbourhood.

Another dog lover said residents should adopt a balanced approach. "The dogs are also part of the neighbourhood. If they are healthy and not aggressive, they should not be treated as a nuisance. At the same time, their presence should be monitored so that children and other park users are not put at risk," he said.

The issue highlighted the challenge faced by civic authorities in balancing public safety concerns with animal welfare. Residents said the Greater Chennai Corporation could assess the situation and ensure that the dogs are monitored, particularly around areas frequented by children.

For now, the dogs continue to be seen inside the park, while parents and dog lovers remain divided over whether their presence warrants any intervention.

3 women arrested after kicking traffic barricades

By N Rathi Chithra

THREE young women were arrested last week after a video showing them riding a scooter without helmets and kicking traffic barricades on 100 Feet Road in Thirumangalam went viral on social media, triggering concern among motorists and residents over reckless behaviour on a busy city road.

According to the police, the incident occurred when the three women, aged between 20 and 23, were travelling together on a scooter. The video, recorded by a motorist travelling behind them, showed the women kicking barricades placed along the middle of the road as they rode past.

The video was subsequently circulated widely on social media. Acting on the footage, personnel from the Anna Nagar Traffic Investigation Wing traced the scooter using its registration number and identified the three women as residents of Chetpet, Shenoy Nagar and

The traffic police arrested the trio and registered a case in connection with the traffic violations and other offences. They were later released on station bail after being warned against repeating such violations.

The incident has drawn criticism from motorists who said such behaviour on a busy stretch such as 100 Feet Road could have resulted in a serious accident.

"We watched the video that went viral on social media and were shocked. This is not a joke. 100 Feet Road is a busy stretch with a large number of two-wheelers, cars and other vehicles moving through the area," said a resident of Thirumangalam.

"Usually, we have seen young men behaving irresponsibly like this on the road, but it is shocking to see even young women engaging in such dangerous behaviour. Such actions should not be treated as mere traffic violations," he said.

Motorists pointed out that kicking the barricades and traffic cones into the path of other vehicles could have had serious consequences.

"They were not only putting themselves at risk. They were also endangering the lives of fellow motorists. A rider or driver could have suddenly encountered the cone after it was kicked onto the road, lost balance or swerved into another vehicle," said another motorist who frequently uses 100 Feet Road.

Residents also questioned whether the action taken against the trio adequately reflected the potential danger caused to other road users.

"Police should have considered invoking more stringent provisions relating to endangering the safety of other road users. When someone deliberately creates an obstruction on a busy road, it can lead to an accident and even loss of life," said a resident.

The incident has also renewed calls for motorists to follow basic road-safety rules, including wearing helmets, avoiding reckless driving and respecting traffic barricades placed to regulate vehicle movement.

Police said the investigation was initiated after the video surfaced on social media and the vehicle was identified through its registration details.
